From Our President

Ah, December. The last month of the year, and probably the busiest. Each year, I promise myself I will complete Christmas shopping, gift wrapping, and decorating early. I've yet to get it that "trifecta" right. Throw cookie making and Christmas cards into the mix, and it could get crazy. I guess you just have to keep a sense of humor about it. Even if I manage to get most shopping out of the way, I will actually delay getting one or two smaller items until a few days before Christmas. That way I get out in the middle of the crowds of shoppers, but I don't get stressed trying to complete a long list. Try it sometime. Include lunch, and it's a happy day.

Our club has one event planned for December – our Christmas party on December 6th. This party is always wonderful. It's like we're not only celebrating the holidays, we're celebrating the close of a fun-filled year. 2014 has been busy with car shows, rallies, parades, cruise-ins, drive-n-dines, coffees, and breakfasts. Throw in an autocross, a hayride/BBQ and bonfire, bowling, color tour, farewell picnic for Ted & Julie Lasher, and bingo, and it's clear we had fun with our Corvettes, fellow club members, and friends – new and old.

So, take a deep breath, relax, and enjoy this crazy month. Stay warm and be safe, everyone, and save the wave. See you in 2015, and we'll do it all over again.

News for Members

Editor's Notes:

News flash: Bloomington Gold is moving to Indy next year. There's a nice article by our web master in this newsletter. This year was held in Champaign, IL and what a great event it was. The cars, the judging, concessions, the cruise, the friendly people, all worth experiencing.

There isn't a Tech Tips section this month. Lots of articles to fill up the newsletter. However, there are plenty of tips on our web site. Go to the section called Torque 'n Tune. You can find the link at the bottom of the home page. There's something there for all the C generations.

There's more speculation on the mid-engine vette in the January issue of Corvette Magazine. Sounds like the General is seriously considering it. There's also a great article on the 8 speed automatic. Pick up a copy.

The Fall issue of Blue Bars is out. You NCCC members should have received a copy. All the results of the years autocross events (and more) and a plethora of pictures of this years convention are inside. The buz has it that maybe next year's issues will be sent electronically. Hang on to your printed copies they'll be collector items on eBay.

Everyone have a happy holiday season and a joyous New Year! Editor

2015 Bloomington Gold

Bloomington Gold has moved to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for 2015!!! Dates are June 25-27. The ever changing Schedule of Events is already posted. Bloomington Gold is planning an Auto Cross, burnout competition and other fun stuff. Staging for the Road Tour is on the Speedway track, and the tour starts there!!

Get your motel reservations in NOW before prices start to skyrocket. There are a lot of hotels to choose from but prices do go up as rooms fill up. A few of us already have reservations at the Drury Inn Indianapolis, 9320 N Michigan Road. Their phone number is 317.876.9777. (It wouldn't hurt to sign up for their Drury Gold Key Club before making your reservations.)

Drury Inn Indianapolis is located about 15 miles out, but is in an area with a lot of restaurants, including walkable ones. That is if you even need to go out. They have a Quick Start breakfast and a free 5:30 Kickback with hot food and cold beverages. If you miss that, a Cracker Barrel is right next door with Texas Roadhouse and Ruby Tuesday on the corner.

Call Simon or Gloria Reiffer if you have any questions. We've attended Bloomington Gold as it has been held in three different locations over the past 20 years. They do a really good job organizing it.

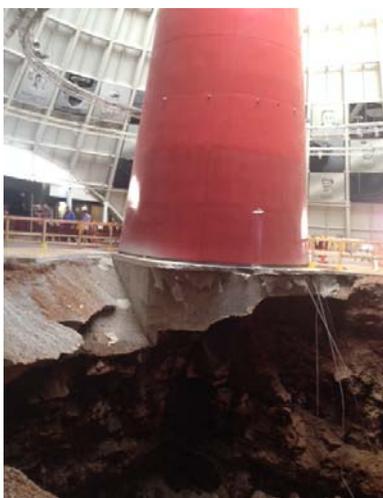

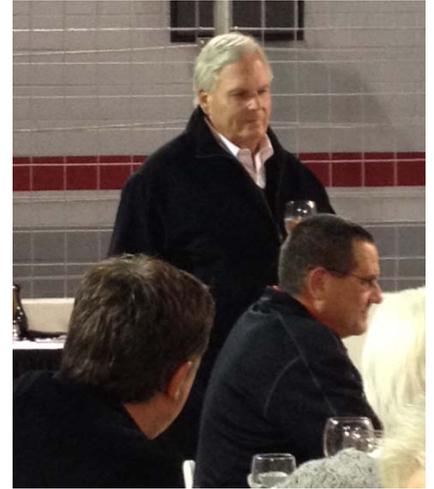

Ambassador's Travels

First I would like to apologize, because it has been a while since I have written an update regarding my travels as the club's ambassador. As most of you know, I have been filling in for Capital City Corvette Club's NCM Ambassador for the last three years. I have been the ambassador for the Corvette Club of Michigan for ten years. For the last ten years I have been attending, at minimum, two events per year at the National Corvette Museum, one of which is the mandatory ambassador meeting during the Labor Day event. Five years ago, I was accepted as a board member to the National Corvette Museum, which required me to attend four meetings in Bowling Green throughout the year. Over the last ten years I have estimated that I have put a grand total of about thirty-five thousand miles on my cars travelling to and from the museum for events, meetings, and caravan routes, with a lot of memorable moments and miles along the way.

At the beginning of this year I decided that after ten years, I would take a break from carrying the NCM banner. My main goal for this year was to participate in the twentieth anniversary celebration, but due to my job I was unable to participate in the caravan, but I was still able to attend the event and meet up with fellow club members in Bowling Green.

This year started off with an NCM board meeting, that was held in Charlotte, North Carolina. The board was hosted by Mr. Rick Hendrick. We travelled to his facility and got a tour of the racing shops where they build the race cars for Jimmie Johnson, Jeff Gordon, Dale Earnhart, Jr. and Casey Khane. After our tour of the shops and our meeting, we got a tour of "Mr. H's" private collection of automobiles.

The only way to describe this collection is Outstanding! In a beautifully appointed warehouse, was over one hundred and fifty of the most beautifully restored or original automobiles, representing everything from late thirties to present day. Most cars were of GM vintage, but to see the arrangements and storefronts that represented his life was absolutely amazing. I felt very fortunate to view this collection, because it is not open to the public. Later in the evening, while we were having dinner in the administration building, Mr. Hendrick was able to stop in and speak with us for about an hour. Also during this trip, I got the opportunity to drive a new 2014 Corvette Stingray, that was owned by a fellow board member. All I can say is if the base car is the this good, the Z06 will be awesome!

When I returned home from this meeting, we all learned the next morning about the great "Sink hole" that opened up at the NCM. It has been well publicized that eight Corvettes went into that hole. I am happy to report that three of the eight cars will be repaired and the room will be rebuilt as good as new. But what really hits home for me is that twelve years ago, Jennifer and I took delivery of our new 2003 Corvette, as part of the R8C Delivery program, and right where we were presented with our car inside the spire, is where that hole opened up. As I have done for the last ten years, I returned to the NCM in April, to attend the Birthday Bash. It is my way of getting the car out of hibernation and getting ready for the "Corvette Season". I travelled to the museum with a couple of close friends and we got to see the sink hole up close, but more importantly we learned about the new colors and options for the 2015 model year.

Over the past six years now, I have been attending the C4/ZR-1 Gathering, which is an event held in May at the museum for the C4 generation of the Corvette. This is a small event, but as a ZR-1 owner it is an important event, because you get a chance to meet some of the most knowledgeable people that were/are affiliated with this particular genre of Corvette. One of the highlights I had this year was the opportunity to actually drive and compete in the autocross event with one of the eight "Black Widow" ZR-1's. This particular car was owned by Jim VanDorn.

If you think driving a stock C4 generation ZR-1 was a thrill, try driving one that has been modified by Dough Rippie Motorsports. Needless to say, some of the after-market tuners really know how to squeeze just a little more out of these cars and really make them come to life.

The Woodward Dream Cruise was my next event. Being from Detroit, I enjoy returning to the Metro Detroit area for this one day event however, I tend to make it last for at least three days. In recent years, I have been attending this event with the members of the Michigan Chapter of the National Corvette Restorers Society (NCRS). They have a wonderful set up at Woodward and Maple in Birmingham, Michigan. In their package deal, we are able to park on Friday night and spend all day Saturday, where we have a continental breakfast and a catered lunch. They also have a technical seminar and the gathering of vintage Corvettes amongst the club members is quite the sight to see. This year I drove my "vintage" 1995 ZR-1 to the event and it was one of two ZR-1's present for the entire day at the club's event. Earlier in the week my daughter and I drove the Impala SS and cruised the boulevard. If you have never been to the Woodward Dream Cruise, I would suggest you make it something to attend, at least once.

As I mentioned before, I was unable to participate in the 20th Anniversary Caravan back to the National Corvette Museum this year, but I did get the chance to meet up with the participants as they assembled at the Chevrolet Dealership in Marshall, Michigan. The caravan was well attended and it repeated some of the venues and routes we did in 2009. When I did make it to the museum for the weekend, the big news was the Grand Opening of the Motorsports Park. Participants got the chance to see the Corvette Racing Team practice on the new track, but participants also got the chance to take either parade laps or hot laps. The track was busy all weekend, and as a board member, I can see where this will be a wonderful addition to the entire Corvette experience, once you arrive in Bowling Green. As the weekend wound down, I attended the Hall of Fame banquet. This year the Hall of Fame inductees consisted of Dave MacDonald, enshrined for Corvette Racing, Jerry Burton in the Enthusiast category, and John Heinricy for Chevrolet. All remarkable people who contributed greatly to Corvette.

In looking for just one more adventure as the Summer turned to Fall, I finally decided this would be the year I try to adventure to another state for a Fall Color Tour. One such tour I have had on my list for a while is a tour in southern Ohio that is put on by a Corvette restoration shop known as the Restoration Station. This shop is located in Springboro, Ohio and the event is held the third Sunday in October each year. I took a leisurely drive down early this Sunday morning, passing through small towns and viewing the typical old court houses along the way. When I finally arrived in Springboro, I was amazed to see well over two hundred Corvettes assembled for this cruise. Coffee and donuts were available and tours of the shop. Then a very well organized driver's meeting was held and we were off for about a two hour drive over some of the most beautiful country roads that Ohio had to offer. The event was well organized and the participants were very friendly, even after they learned I was from Michigan. Some thought it was strange that I would drive for four hours, just to drive for another two hours, then return home for another four hour trip. Hey, what can I say, I like to drive and when piloting a Corvette who cares how far or how long!

That has been a thumbnail report of my travels this year as the ambassador. There have been shows I have attended and other local gatherings, but after ten years I have decided to turn the reigns over or allow someone else the opportunities to travel and get out and spread the word about the National Corvette Museum and their club's involvement with it. I have gotten rid of my vintage ZR-1 and my 2007 Z06.

The kids are now sixteen and thirteen and their schedules have somewhat taken over the extra time Jennifer and I have. What little time we have left we tend to spend doing other things, that don't always include Corvettes. But just to keep myself somewhat grounded, I did pick up a 2012 Centennial Edition Z06 at the end of the season.

I have decided to not renew my membership with Capital City Corvette Club this year. It has been a fun club to be associated with and I have a lot of fond memories. It's not to say that I may rejoin again in the future, but I assure you that you will still see me around at car shows or events from time to time. I just feel I should take some time off from the clubs because I haven't been able to fulfill my obligations like I would like to anymore.

In January, I come off the Board of Directors of the National Corvette Museum, after fulfilling two terms. During the last five years we have accomplished a lot in Bowling Green.

So for now I wish you all a very Happy Thanksgiving, Merry Christmas and a wonder New Year to come!

Save the Wave!

Member Thoughts

What being in a Corvette Club is about

When one joins a club like the 4C's, you don't know what to expect necessarily. Especially when you have never belonged to a club before. I believe everyone has their own little unspoken expectation and reason why they joined the club. Some join with high expectations of what they expect the club to be like.

Some join not really knowing what to expect. Some join to make new friends and the camaraderie that comes along with making new friends. Some join to participate in the events that are planned for the club to do. But whatever the reason one has to admit that once you have been in the club for awhile it wasn't really what you expected the club to be at all. I can't speak for anyone else, but I know when I joined the club, it wasn't what I had expected! Is it expensive to belong to this club? Yes, it is!! But to me it's an expensive priceless. If that even makes any sense!!

I have made a ton of friends that I will cherish forever. Some are still with the club and I don't think they plan on going anywhere anytime soon. Some have come and gone and some have even come back. My point is when joining a club, one has to keep an open mind in knowing that we all join for different reasons and have different expectation levels on what the club will be like when we join. For those of you that are in the club, new to the club or those that have left and have come back or thinking of coming back, everyone of us, as different as each one of us may be, and regardless of the reasons and expectations we all have, this club is what it is today because of each and every one of us.

It's not about politics, or who started what trendy event in the club or who's kept the club afloat, or who has served/not served on the board or volunteered the most or the least. It's about making lifelong friends. Its about the respect we have for each other. It's about the camaraderie. It's about a little friendly competition between members once in a while. It's about the food we enjoy eating every time we get together. It's about coming together as a team and working together to make this club what it is today. Most of all, the club is about the sports car that each one of us has in common, The Corvette!! And its about having fun!!

So whether you jump in with both feet full speed ahead or you join with some reserve in mind, we are in this together and every single one of us plays an important part in making this club what it is today and what it's going to hopefully be in the future.

Save the wave!

Remember when?

An article by Angela Hyde

Remember when?

When someone says in conversation "Do you remember.....?" And you don't remember what it is that they are talking about, you realize you're really the "youngest" in a group of people. Many of you know I have been the youngest in the club for a long time. Yes, we have had members younger than myself that have come and gone. And, as many of you know, I am proud to say I am the "youngest" member in the club and I look up to each and every one of you. But, reality hit home these last few months that.....YES, I REALLY am the youngest in the club. In several different conversations I've been in with members and they say "Do you remember.....?" and I "don't remember.....!", what the other person is talking about, it makes me wonder what else do I not remember because I wasn't around back then??

So with that being said... I want to know.... "What do YOU remember way back when?? Whether it be 20, 30, or even more than 50 years ago? Was it gas prices, the cost of milk and bread, certain TV shows or movies back then? Was there even such a thing as TV and movies when you were growing up?? Was there such a thing back then as the Stock Market?? Did your parents have an outhouse you had to go outside to, for a bathroom or did they have indoor plumbing back then, as we do today? Was there such a thing back then as riding your bike, hoola hoops, silly putty, playing practical jokes on your siblings or friends? These are all things I want to know and more of what you saw, had or did back then that may or may not have existed back then or exists today!! Because it was before MY time and "I don't REMEMBER WHEN!!!"

So....what do you remember way back when??

Corvette collection surfaces after 25 years

Twenty five or so years ago, Peter Max the artist, purchased a collection of 36 Chevrolet Corvettes, one from every year of manufacture up until 1989. His plan was to use these vettes to self-promote his work as an artist, painting the machines in wild colors and staging them in various locations.

But that didn't happen. Instead, the collection sat in a New York City storage garage for a quarter of a century. Gathering dust, moved only when location was changed from one storage area to another.

However, that is about to change. The cars are now under new ownership and will be restored and put back on the road.

How sweet it is!
